INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

MUFG Japan Equity Small Cap Fund ("Fund") focuses on idiosyncratic Japanese stocks with pioneering business models and long-term growth potential through economic cycles. The Fund tries to identify attractive Japanese small-cap companies, which are overlooked by other market participants, based on rigorous bottom-up research.

The MSCI Japan Small Cap Index is used as a comparator benchmark to help investors assess the performance of the Fund. The Fund is actively managed and does not aim to track the index. The index has been selected as it represents the universe of Japanese small cap equities, which aligns with the Fund's investment strategy.

The minimum recommended investment term is five years.

FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

The Japanese equity market sharply declined in March, with the MSCI Japan Small Cap Index returning -10.0%. In the first half of March, higher crude oil prices and risk-off sentiment, triggered by the geopolitical tension in the Middle East, weighed on the equity market. In the latter half of the month, the market rebounded temporarily after President Trump's comment that the war would end soon, however it declined further toward the end of the month.

The Fund returned -10.7%, underperforming the index by 0.6%. In terms of our investment themes, the best performer was "Capital Expenditure", while "Semiconductors" contributed negatively the most to the portfolio.

The largest contributor was Vertex (5290), a manufacturer of building materials, including concrete products, raw materials and other related products. Following the solid Q3 FY2025 results, the share price rose further after the firm announced a dividend increase. Expectations that amendments to the Sewerage Act will strengthen maintenance of ageing sewer infrastructure, also supported the share price appreciation.

Conversely, the largest detractor was JAPAN ELECTRONIC MATERIALS (6855), a manufacturer of semiconductor testing components. The share price declined after the firm announced a public offering, raising concerns over potential dilution of up to 15.8%. In the probe card industry, the firm's core business, investors focus shifted from longer-term capacity expansion benefits to the near-term impact of the capital increase amid tight supply-demand conditions.

■RISK RATINGS

Complete information on all risks is set out in the prospectus and in the KID, both of which are available free of charge at <https://www.uk.am.mufg.jp> or from the Management Company.

High risk/return: This Fund presents a high volatility risk (SRRI of 6). The potential for growth is high with a corresponding level of risk. Funds in this category can often experience extreme fluctuations in value especially over the shorter term.

Any such risk rating is intended only as a general guide and does not provide any guarantee or assurance that a particular level of risk will or will not be attained. A risk rating may also change in the future.

It is important that you read the appropriate risk category description. The name of the Fund is not a description of its risk. Investment funds are rated on a scale of Low risk/return to High risk/return.

An increase in the level of risk can represent an increase in the potential for your money to grow, but it also means an increase in the likelihood of the value of your fund fluctuating dramatically or falling and your losing all or part of your money.

Risks materially relevant to the Sub-Fund which are not captured by the indicator

Liquidity risk: Some of the assets of the Sub-Fund may become difficult to sell at a certain time and for a reasonable price.

Counterparty risk: If a counterparty does not fulfil its obligations to the Sub-Fund (e.g. not paying an agreed amount or not delivering securities as agreed).

Operational risk: The risk of loss resulting from inadequate internal processes or system breakdowns, human errors or from external events.
